Dear Mr. Nicholson:

I have received your letter of June 11, 1959, identifying the passage from my book, Germany's Underground (MacMillan, 1947), which you desire to use in an anthology to be titled, The War, 1939-1945. I have looked over the cited passage running between pages 1 and 11 beginning: "If I address you today," the Führer said, and ending: In order that Hitler's Thousand-Year Reich might survive another two hundred and ninety days, and you have my approval to use it in the manner you propose.

Your offer of $75.00 for the use of this passage is entirely satisfactory to me.

With kindest regards.

Sincerely,

SIGNED
Allen W. Dulles

Dear Mr. Nicholson:

I have received your letter of June 11, 1959, identifying the passage from my book, Germany's Underground (Mac Millan, 1947), which you desire to use in an anthology to be titled, The War, 1939-1945. ~~The~~ passage running between pages 1 and 11, begins: 'If I address you today, the Führer said' and ending: 'In order that Hitler's Thousand-Year Reich might survive another two hundred and ninety days'. The passage being a single one and not portions from here and there throughout the book, I find your offer of $75.00 for such use satisfactory.

You may consider this letter as my acceptance of your offer.

With kindest regards.

Sincerely,

Allen W. Dulles

and you have my approval to use it in the manner you propose.

Your offer of $75.00 for the use of this passage is entirely satisfactory to me.
With kindest regards.

Dear Mr. Dulles,

Anthology: The War 1939-1945.

With reference to our recent correspondence regarding an extract from Germany's Underground, which we would like to use in our anthology, I can now identify for you the piece in question. It runs between pages 1 and 11, beginning: '"If I address you today," the Führer said' and ending: 'In order that Hitler's Thousand-Year Reich might survive another two hundred and ninety days'.

We would be very grateful for your permission to use your description of the Hitler Bomb Plot, on the terms we suggested.

Yours sincerely,

T. R. Nicholson.

Dear Mr. Dulles,

Many thanks for your letter of the 4th, and for giving consideration to our request. The chapter concerned in our anthology is at present out of my possession, but as soon as I can lay my hands on it I shall be glad to let you know which passages from your book we would like to use.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Mr. Nicholson:

I have received your offer for world English language rights in the use of a 3400 word extract from my book Germany's Underground in an anthology you propose to issue under the title The War, 1939-1945.

Although your offer appears satisfactory, in order that I may consider the matter fully, would you please identify the passage(s) you desire to use.

With kindest regards.

Sincerely,

Mr. Alan Welsh Dulles,

Dear Sir,

On 3 September 1959, the twentieth anniversary of the declaration of war upon Nazi Germany by Great Britain, we are publishing an anthology of what the two editors who have made the selection consider to be the finest factual writing on the conflict, as seen from all sides and in all services and walks of life. The book is called The War, 1939-1945, and comprises, in all, some 600,000 words.

We would be very grateful for your permission to include in this important anthology an extract of some 3400 words from your book GERMANY'S UNDERGROUND (Macmillan 1947). We wish to distribute the book in Canada, and the rights in the United States will be taken by Messrs. Harper & Brothers. We should be most grateful if you would grant us world English language rights in the use of this extract for which we would like to suggest a fee of $ 75.00. We are looking forward to hearing from you whether you find this acceptable.

With many thanks,

Yours sincerely,

T.R. Nicholson
